has considered the agreements as evidence in connection with Defendants' motion. Plaintiffs do not contest the authenticity of the agreements and have provided identical copies of some of the agreements in opposition.

- B. Defendants' request for judicial notice of a minute order from People v. Atlantic Richfield Co., et al., Orange County Superior Court Case No. 804030 (Ex. J), is GRANTED as to the existence of the order.
- C. Defendants' request for judicial notice of the size of the budgets of the plaintiff entities (Reply Exs. A I) is DENIED. The amount of a specific entity's budget is not a proper subject of judicial notice. An entity's projections and expectations regarding its budget may change during the course of the fiscal year at issue. Further, the sizes of the budgets are not relevant to the issues in Defendants' motion.

II. Defendants' Motion

Defendants seek an order precluding Plaintiffs from retaining outside counsel under any agreement in which the payment of fees and costs is contingent on the outcome of the litigation.

Defendants contend the government may not retain a private attorney on a contingent fee basis to litigate a public nuisance claim.

Plaintiffs contend there is no absolute bar to retaining outside counsel on a contingent fee basis to litigate a public nuisance claim and, given the circumstances under which outside counsel was retained in this case, disqualification of outside counsel is not warranted.

In People ex rel. Clancy v. Superior Court (1985) 39 Cal.3d 740 ("Clancy"), the California Supreme Court "evaluate[d] the propriety of a contingent fee arrangement between a city government and a private attorney whom it hired to bring abatement actions under the city's nuisance ordinance." (Clancy, 39 Cal.3d at 743.) The California Supreme Court explained that "the contingent fee arrangement between the City and Clancy is antithetical to the standard of neutrality that an attorney representing the government must meet when prosecuting a public nuisance abatement action. In the interests of justice, therefore, we must order Clancy disqualified from representing the City in the pending abatement action." (Id., at 750.)

Clancy is applicable to the instant case. Plaintiffs fail to persuasively distinguish Clancy, or otherwise persuasively articulate why their fee arrangements with outside counsel are proper. Plaintiffs' main argument is that the government attorneys continue to retain and/or exercise decision-making authority and control over the litigation in this case. The fact remains, however, that outside counsel (i.e., Thornton & Naumes, Motley Rice LLC, and Mary Alexander and Associates for the City and County of San Francisco, and Cotchett, Pitre & McCarthy for most of the other public entities) are co-counsel in this case. They are performing work as attorneys for the plaintiff government entities, and consequently they are subject to the standard of neutrality articulated in Clancy. Oversight by the government attorneys does not eliminate the need for or requirement that outside counsel adhere to the standard of neutrality.

Moreover, as a practical matter, it would be difficult to determine (a) how much control the government attorneys must exercise in order for a contingent fee arrangement with outside counsel be permissible, (b) what types of decisions the government attorneys must retain control over, e.g., settlement or major strategy decisions, or also day-to-day decisions involving discovery and so forth, and (c) whether the government attorneys have been exercising such control throughout the litigation or whether they have passively or blindly accepted recommendations, decisions, or actions by outside counsel. Plaintiffs in their opposition characterize outside counsel as "collaborators." (See Pls.' Mem. Opp. Motion, at 8:21-22.) Given the inherent difficulties of determining whether or to what extent the prosecution of this nuisance action might or will be influenced by the presence of outside counsel operating under a authority and responsibility in the case, notwithstanding the hiring of outside counsel.

contingent fee arrangement, outside counsel must be precluded from operating under a contingent fee agreement, regardless of the government attorneys' and outside attorneys' well-meaning intentions to have all decisions in this litigation made by the government attorneys.

Plaintiffs make two additional arguments in their opposition. Plaintiffs contend public policy should preclude disqualification in this case, because the government entities and lawyers lack the resources and specific expertise necessary to prosecute this action. The standard of neutrality should apply, however, regardless of the wealth of either the government lawyer or the defendant. (See City & County of San Francisco v. Philip Morris, Inc. (N.D. Cal. 1997) 957 F. Supp. 1130, 1136 fn. 3 ["The Court wishes to make clear that it does not base this ruling on plaintiffs' argument that, as a matter of public policy, a contingent fee arrangement is necessary in this case to make it feasible for the financially strapped government entities to match resources with the wealthy tobacco defendants. The Court does not find this argument convincing in light of the concerns expressed in Clancy."].)

Plaintiffs also contend Defendants' motion is premature, unless and until Defendants are found liable, the Court determines the appropriate form and scope of the abatement remedy, and the Court determines the appropriate amount of fees in this case. This action may be resolved prior to such determinations, however, e.g., by way of settlement or by way of other dispositive motion. If Defendants are entitled to neutral prosecution by government attorneys who are not operating under a contingent fee arrangement, then they are so entitled throughout the prosecution of this case.

Accordingly, Defendants' motion for an order precluding Plaintiffs from retaining outside counsel under any agreement in which the payment of fees and costs is contingent on the outcome of the litigation is GRANTED. Plaintiffs shall have 30 days to file with the court new fee agreements in accordance with this order. In lieu of filing the actual agreements, Plaintiffs may provide declarations detailing the fee arrangements with outside counsel.
